

Subject Guide

Urban Studies & Planning

Urban studies, which focuses on the examination of cities, metropolitan regions, and urban and suburban landscapes, is a structured field of enquiry steered by the complex, ever-changing, and often large-scale realities presented by evolving human settlements (Bowel et al. 2010,199).

This guide offers resources for the interdisciplinary field of urban studies and planning catering to the research needs of scholars and practitioners.

In addition to the collections available at the IIHS Library, you will also find the publications of the IIHS at the Knowledge Gateway.

Keyword Search Tips

Try changing to Advanced Search.

Adjacency

Multiple words are not searched together as a phrase. They will be found in various parts of the record. To search for a phrase, enclose your search terms in quotation marks.

(example: "AbdouMaliq Simone")

Truncation

Words may be right-hand truncated using an asterisk. Use a single asterisk * to truncate any number of characters.

(example: environment* agency)

Anchored Searching

You may use ^ and $ to indicate "phrase begins with" and "phrase ends with," respectively, within a search phrase enclosed in quotation marks.

(examples: "^harry" for phrases that begin with the term harry. "stone$" for phrases that end in stone.)
