

New Collections in the IIHS University Library January 2026

This month's New Collection highlights key titles engaging with history, cities, infrastructure, and environment. Partha Dasgupta's new book, On Natural Capital: The Value of the World Around us, examines nature through new economic thinking. Urban sensory environments are explored through Urban Roar: A Psychophysical Approach to the Design of Affective Environments, focusing on soundscapes, affect, and city experience. Urban Ecology and Environment are addressed in Urban Evolutionary Biology, bringing ecological and evolutionary perspectives to urbanization. Together, these titles contribute critical insights into the making, experience, and governance of contemporary cities.
